NOT DRUNK BUT ILL.

Receiving Physicians Accused of Treating a Patient Brutally.

George W. Deacon's Death May Have Been Due to Their Neglect.

Admission at Chambers Street or Bellevue Denied Him at First.

George W. Deacon, an Englishman, thirty-nine years old, who has lived in the United States for twenty years, died in Bellevue Hospital yesterday morning under circumstances which seem to call for an investigation.

Ten days ago Deacon was taken sick in his laundry, Miss Ley's, of 93 Madison street, on the Saturday following called Dr. Samuel Brothers, whose office is on the first floor of the same house. Brothers diagnosed Deacon's ailment as grip and bronchitis, and recommended that the patient report at Bellevue Hospital.

Deacon set out Sunday morning, and told Miss Ley's and her relatives that he had been shamefully and brutally treated by the hospital officers, who, after calling him out for over an hour, had him out and threatened to have him arrested for drunkenness.

Dr. Brothers was again called in. He and Deacon's symptoms more aggravated than the day before, and Miss Ley's, a sister of the laundry, thereupon accompanied Deacon to the hospital, where they were furnished with the letter from Dr. Brothers, requesting the medical authorities to take the man in their charge, and told them Deacon was evidently a young gentleman who was in charge of the office at the Chambers Street Hospital," said Miss Katie, "Evening World" reporter last night.

He called one of the physicians, who, after reading the letter, called another physician, and so on, until it took a while for a while and then, without having examined Mr. Deacon, said that he could not receive him.

"Why, I am very sick now, and want to be out of my mind at times. If you refuse to take him in, he will surely die."

Well, called one of the doctors, we will have to take him elsewhere.

I thereupon indignantly charged them being induced to do so, in their refusal to take Mr. Deacon, I should report to Dr. Brothers, who would no doubt call the attention of the manufacturers to their conduct.

President McAllister of the Manufacturers' Association denied that Fawley had come to town on the invitation of the manufacturers.

"That had the desired effect. One of the physicians applied his ear to Deacon's chest. 'While it is true,' he said, 'that Fawley was present at our meeting yesterday, he did not say that he was sick enough to require immediate medical attention and nursing. I left Dr. Deacon in their charge.'

Then Deacon, who had received notice that Deacon had died in Bellevue Hospital, to which place he was transferred last Monday. Notice was given to Dr. Deacon, who lives in Paterson, N. J., that Deacon came on to view his son's body. She is so poor she cannot even defray the expense of his burial.

At Bellevue Hospital, 'The Evening World' reporter said that Deacon was brought from Chambers Street on a stretcher, about noon yesterday morning, and that his abdomen was set down on the stretcher as though it were trouble.

'He died in bed No. 32,' concluded Dr. Purfield, who was in charge of his hospital office at the time.

Ernest Wittner, a doctor at 734 Broadway, who is a member of the Terminal Hospital, said yesterday: 'Such a stewardship as this can be found in no other hospital in the city.' The doctor, however, said that he had not been able to get any information concerning Deacon's condition.
